B. REPORTS

Trustee Elby congratulated Trustee John Davern on his up-coming graduation and thanked him for the service as student trustee, wishing him the best as he pursues his future educational and professional endeavors.

Trustee Elby reported there was a meeting of the Executive Committee to discuss personnel and budgetary matters, as well as the presidential evaluation which will require action by the Trustees later in the meeting.

President’s Report
Robert Pignatello

Dr. Pignatello acknowledged John Davern’s service over the last year and a half, representing the University as a student athlete and trustee, wishing him the best on what will certainly be a bright future.

The University just concluded its limited in-person instruction marking the end of a second strange semester in higher education. President Pignatello recounted some of the research conducted by Director Joby Topper on the pandemic of 1918 which impacted operations at the Normal School and our community with the closing of bars and saloons, the cancellation of the school’s football season, and the suspension of all schools in Clinton County for five weeks. These stories will be featured in the next issue of the Haven Magazine.

Here in 2020, the pandemic worsens and there are rising rates across the Commonwealth. Our special report today will introduce our COVID tracers who have been invaluable detectives in mitigating the spread of the virus on campus.

There are many working groups that have been established to support the integration efforts, each being charged for a specific area of interest to assure that the triad merger will be effective and efficient. These groups will be expected to complete their work for submission to the Chancellor and presidents prior to April 2021. There will be opportunity for all constituents to provide feedback on the planning of the final framework. At LHU the integration website is now available and President Pignatello has conducted several town hall meetings and also produced a video to dispel myths and rumors.

As part of the continued celebration of our 150th anniversary, President Pignatello was proud of the unveiling of our grand eagle statute and he and Amy judged the coloring contest with finalists to be announced in February.

PSAC has formally announced the cancellation of the regular season and championships for both fall and winter sports for most institutions, with cross country and swimming opting in for championship play. LHU is allowing student-athletes to participate in very structured training and fitness conditioning assuring their safety.

Our Middle States teams have made significant progress and continue to collect evidence to support the self-study document which was updated after being reviewed by the campus and receiving feedback. Currently, the team is drafting the institution’s COVID-19 response as it relates to each standard and the Steering Committee will be reviewing this draft at its November meeting. At this time, we anticipate no problems in preparing for the Team Chair visit in March 2021.

Academic Affairs Report

Ron Darbeau, Provost and Vice President of Academic Affairs

Dr. Darbeau provided an overview of several points of pride from Academic Affairs: Through a collaboration with Mansfield and Bloomsburg, Dr. Erica Moore and her colleagues will enhance course offerings and develop new programs; our counselling center for students have developed self-help mental health screening tools that will assist students and direct them to services; the clinical mental health counselling program has seen significant growth; and discussions with the Clearfield Campus community leadership to form work groups on fundraising and relationship building.

The spring semester will start on January 25, one week later and end on May 7th, with no spring break to mitigate virus spread. The fall semester presented approximately 85% of the courses remotely and the faculty and deans have worked to reduce that amount and moving more courses from asynchronous to synchronous in response to student demand.

The University’s sustainability plan requires a reduction in the faculty complement and program review to better align with the number of students being served at LHU. This fall the reduction sought was 19.5. Through attrition and reassignments, only two faculty were presented with retrenchment letters. The following programs with low enrollments will be placed in moratorium: Foreign languages (Spanish), Geology, International Studies, Music, Physics, and Political Science. Students enrolled in each of these areas will be able to complete their degree coursework.

Finance and Administration Report

Deana Hill, Chief Administration and Finance Officer

Ms. Hill reported that the Robinson Learning Center (RLC) renovation project is underway and scheduled for completion in 2023. Parts of Ulmer Hall will be readied during the spring semester for offices and classes to be relocated there and the IT helpdesk has already moved to Stevenson Library. Other space needs will be relocated to the ground floor of Smith.
The "It's on Us" grant funding provided for two important project, the first being the implementation of an anonymous reporting system for Title IX complaints and on November 11th Don McPhearson former NFL player provided three zoom sessions to students and staff with 400 attendees on the subject of gender based violence prevention.

Enrollment Management and Student Affairs Report
Stephen Lee, Vice President

Dr. Lee noted several initiatives that were underway during the fall semester to engage students. Student success coaches reached out to freshmen regularly to assure that they felt connected and directed them to appropriate resources on campus for whatever needs they may have.

Several students from the residence hall association provided 74 treats of donuts and hand sanitizers for our facilities crews to show appreciation for their work during the pandemic.

University Advancement
Joseph Fiochetta, Vice President

Mr. Fiochetta reported that the "All In" fundraising campaign this year focused on athletics to raise funds to compensate for the loss of clinics and other activities and $112,000 was raised, more than double the initial goal.

LHU's newest landmark on campus was unveiled in October with a small group of volunteer leaders. The granite eagle statute is a gift from the Class of 1966 and is has already become a part of our campus life with admissions taking prospective students to the eagle for a photo that they receive before departing campus.

APSCUF President's Report
Peter Campbell, President

Mr. Campbell spoke about APSCUF’s position on two issues: retrenchment and integration. Mr. Campbell stated that while APSCUF appreciates the work done through meet and discuss to reduce the targeted number of retrenchments from 47 to 2, that two is still too many as these faculty members are valuable members of the academic community. APSCUF’s stance on integration is that it is not necessary for LHU to be merged with other universities and that the current reserves of LHU would allow the university to overcome any financial challenges without reduction of workforce or integration. Several anecdotal statements were read to support why LHU faculty have been vocal in their opposition of these plans. Mr. Campbell asked the trustees to protect the uniqueness of Lock Haven University and requested that they each educate themselves on the integration specifics so that they too, if inclined, can be vocal and discourage APSCUF’s belief that the chancellor’s vision is flawed with regard to integration.

Special Report
Beth McMahon, Professor Emeriti, COVID Institutional Response Team

Ms. Hill introduced Dr. Beth McMahon was lured out of retirement to serve as our COVID institutional response team leader. Dr. McMahon immediately set out to form a core group of contact tracers and made sure they received appropriate training. Contact tracers included staff and students, and today McCartney Register, Payton Bell, Madi Dura, Alex Massari, and Sherry Moore joined the meeting.

Dr. McMahon commended the contact tracers for their dedication and excellent handling of their duties which has been recognized by the Health Department as the best in the Commonwealth. The work of the tracers and the asymptomatic testing program at Lock Haven University has been submitted as an article for publication for national health journals. It was apparent from the onset that success would only occur with immediate isolation and our contact tracers were able to make those points of contact usually within ten minutes of notification of a positive test result, whereas the tracers from the department of health were initially taking 48 to 72 hours, and as the cases increased state-wide were not even able to make contact with each positive test result.

The University needed to implement a 14 day pause in any face-to-face instruction after the positivity rate of 5% was reached. This outbreak was due to several positive clusters of students congregating together without following safety protocols. All students returning were tested at the end of the pause and Dr. McMahon acknowledged the financial investment of the testing program that kept our campus safe. In addition to the contact tracers, many others on campus were credited for the success of mitigating the virus spread including those who handled athletic groupings, mental health needs, cleaning and sanitizing, and making isolation areas available at a moment’s notice. The exit testing before students ended the semester came back with no positive results.

Students Alex Massari, McCartney Register, Payton Bell, and Madi Dura each spoke about their involvement as a contact tracer and how these experiences have prepared them for careers as health care professionals and sharpening their communication skills.

The trustees and Dr. Pignatello expressed their appreciation to Dr. McMahon and her team members for their tireless but important work in mitigating the spread of the virus in our community.
