President’s Report
Robert Pignatello

President Pignatello asked all to observe a moment of silence for Dean’s Office Administrative Assistant, Ginny Snyder, Emeritus Dr. Peter Auringer, and business major student, Evan Vonada.

COVID-19 has continued to consume much of the time and energy of the entire campus since the middle of March. Our teams have worked tirelessly to assure for the safety and health of our entire community. Dr. Beth McMahon has managed the contact tracing of our positive test results with integrity and compassion, and her “tracers” have been lauded by the Health Department for their thoroughness. LHU’s facilities and IT staff have capably installed the necessary Plexiglas and zoom upgrades to make teaching and classrooms more conducive to a remote format and our mitigation plan puts us in the best position to be safe.

The University is at the end of a pause of face-to-face instruction due to a rise in positive cases discovered by asymptomatic testing. 740 students and staff were tested over two days and the results are expected over the weekend with a decision to be made on the return to the face-to-face instruction schedule prior to the pause.

These are anxious times for the University. The pandemic has changed the way we work, teach and learn, and how we relate to each other as colleagues and friends and as a Haven family. President Pignatello has been impressed by the resilience that has been shown here by our students, faculty, staff, and coaches. Our entire team has worked tirelessly to keep us all as safe as possible. It does make him feel so proud of our University.

Our meeting today via Zoom is an example of the new normal to conduct business and participate in meetings – alumni board, foundation board, PSAC, summer orientation, welcoming students back to campus, twice-weekly PASSHE meetings, and many, many others are now using technology effectively to do our business and engage each other. Chancellor Greenstein will be conducting his regular semester visit via Zoom on Monday, meeting with executive staff, student leader group, trustees, and an open forum.

Through all of these challenging times, we are encouraged that the fall enrollment did not decrease from last year. Unfortunately, with the cumulative effect of lost revenue from a decade of decreased enrollment, our University cannot continue to remain sustainable. As part of the System Redesign effort, the Office of the Chancellor announced that six universities will integrate into two groupings to create efficiencies for academic offerings, support services, and an administrative structure. Lock Haven will be coupled with Mansfield and Bloomsburg. While this will have implications locally, this move will allow the two groupings to capitalize on economies of scale and create new and more affordable opportunities for the current and future students of this region. This process will take nearly two years to complete. In the meantime, our University will need to substantially decrease our costs, mainly through significant decreases in the workforce as there cannot be more instructions than are needed to teach the number of students currently enrolled. The University cannot have large operating deficits where expenses far outpace revenue.

We will continue to work through these reduction actions and consult and collaborate with employee union leadership and others to executive plans that are based on financial and economic realities that confront us. These have not been easy discussions and they won’t get any easier. And I do appreciate and understand the contrary feelings and positions that exist.

President Pignatello introduced Kenny Hall, the newest member of the Executive Staff team in his role as Director of the Office of Diversity, Equity, and Inclusion. Mr. Hall shared the philosophy and foundation that the Office is centered on, being the fostering and understanding for the concepts of diversity, equity, and inclusion for all faculty, staff, and students. The work of the Office of DEI will focused on cultivating a welcoming environment, providing inter-cultural experiences, and building relationships not only campus-wide but into the community as well; identify, attract, retain and graduate a diverse student body; and identify, attract, and retain a diverse faculty and staff. The mission supports these goals to create an environment where people can participate equally and fully as their true selves, and where all individuals can effectively engage across difference in a community grounded in understanding, trust, and connectedness.

Academic Affairs Report

Ron Darbeau, Provost and Vice President for Academic Affairs

Dr. Darbeau acknowledged the work of the faculty over the past year and their stellar adaptation to teach in a new environment due to the pandemic. In addition, our faculty have continued to hone their skills through scholarship activities, evidence of their commitment to transforming generations of students.

The reduction of faculty and the program array is a very difficult task, but one that is necessary to “right the ship.” Dr. Darbeau looks to work with the entire campus to manage and navigate the challenges ahead to transform the University and stay true to our mission.

Finance and Administration Report

Deana Hill, Chief Administration and Finance Officer

Ms. Hill reported that in addition to the asymptotic testing completed this last week, the University invested in electronic temperature screenings which have been placed in the lobbies of 15 buildings on campus. Ms. Hill recognized the efforts of Emerita Dr. Beth McMahon and her work with the COVID response team, which includes the contact tracers for the testing program. This team includes a broad range of representation, including faculty and staff, that work to keep our campus healthy.
Summer facilities projects included campus electrical upgrades, creating both classroom and office facilities to support the Robinson Learning Center renovation to take place in the coming year, and moving the IT Helpdesk to the Sullivan Library.

In May of this year the Department of Education required universities to update their processes and policies on sexual assault and harassment. Sherry Moore, Associate Director of HR, and Emmy Borst, Assistant Director of Student and Residence Life, undertook the necessary steps to assure that we are in compliance, including the implementation of an anonymous reporting on-line tool which was part of the recent “It’s On Us” grant.

Enrollment Management and Student Affairs Report
Stephen Lee, Vice President

Dr. Lee congratulated the University family and his Division on bringing the students through a challenging time to get them ready for a unique fall semester. Calls are being placed to each student to make sure that they are engaged and to listen to their concerns. Academics, interacting with advisors, and access to technology were among the top categories of what LHU is doing well through the pandemic. The Haven Cupboard is receiving a steady stream of students that are utilizing the student-based food bank. Various programming has been developed to address student well-being and providing academic support in the new virtual classroom environment.

University Advancement
Joseph Fiochetta, Vice President

Mr. Fiochetta reported that COVID placed many engagement activities on hold, reconfigured to a virtual format, or cancelled outright. Fundraising goals to increase funding in key areas continues even though we are not able to meet with donors face-to-face. New scholarships have been created, and the student emergency fund, which supplements the student retention fund, was embraced by our donors. Athletics “All In” is scheduled next week for their annual fundraising campaign. Alumni groups have hosted virtual game shows and happy hours with an overall good participation.

The big event for the 150th anniversary will be the unveiling of the grand granite eagle on October 3rd through the generous donations of the Class of 1966 and several other supporters. The eagle weighs 15 tons and its wing span is 6 feet. This eagle will be a central focal point for our students and alumni to celebrate LHU pride.

LHU APSCUF President Report
Peter Campbell

Mr. Campbell applauded the relationship that continues to grow with Dr. Pignatello and his executive staff. Their approach to shared governance has provided an avenue to address the current and future challenges facing LHU. The COVID pandemic allowed for individual universities to address safety concerns, and Mr. Campbell congratulated the teams working in this area.

The faculty union expressed concern about the financial sustainability processes invoked by the Chancellor, citing that the university’s reserves would allow, along with prudent management, LHU to resolve financial challenges in five years instead of resorting to retrenchment. Likewise, the integration process which joins Mansfield, LHU, and Bloomsburg, produces concern that it will reduce access to an affordable, quality education in the local community. APSCUF vowed to fight to protect the sovereignty of Lock Haven University within the System, and encouraged the trustees to protect the institution.

Success Spotlight

Daniel Spooner, Professor of Biology

Dr. Spooner provided an overview of the work he has done to secure environmental studies grants which will involve our students in the research on an array of topics related to contaminant biology and the assessment of stream ecosystem health. A focus of one grant with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife is fresh water mussels which are currently threatened. This grant provides nearly $131,000 in funding for the bio magnification of the life cycle of the mussels. Additional research opportunities have been funded to research the American Eel as well.
