1. Middle States Self-Study

Dr. Steven Pugliese, our Vice President Liaison with the Middle States Commission, was on campus April 16 for the Self-Study Preparation Visit. He met with the President, Executive and Administrative staff along with a Trustee, faculty, staff, and students in an open forum, and conducted a lengthy working meeting with the Steering Committee. The Steering Committee has a few minor revisions to make to the Self-Study Design, but overall the design was commended as a model framework for an effective and efficient self-study.

The Self-Study Steering Committee has met and has constituted all eight working groups with the exception of a handful of student members, who will be appointed in the fall.

Next steps are for the Co-chairs, Dr. Cori Myers and Provost Donna Wilson, to revise the Self-Study Design Document as indicated and resubmit to Dr. Pugliese for final approval.

2. System Redesign

Goal Alignment: Mike Abplanalp, Director of Institutional Research, VP Hanelly, and Provost Wilson are working to align our Strategic Plan key performance indicators with the new PASSHE measures for University and Student Success. We will be working over the summer to map our planning and strategies onto the system strategic plan and prepare to align our budgets with the planning and strategies, in consultation with the OOC.

Academic Program Sharing: A system-wide team is being assembled to work toward two distinct approaches to academic program sharing – PASSHE Collaborative, which focuses on specific program collaborations to help universities reduce staffing costs while maintaining a wide range of academic opportunities for students, and PASSHE Online, which focuses on recruiting and serving on post-traditional employed citizens across the Commonwealth who have some credits but no degree, and helping to identify online pathways to a credential across the system for them and supporting them through completion of that credential pathway. Lock Haven University has already begun to pursue academic program collaborations with Clarion University (Social Studies Education) and Mansfield (Criminal Justice); we will work toward collaborations in humanities (Philosophy, Anthropology, Foreign Languages), Nursing, and Physician Assistant in the near future.
3. Academic Affairs

The University is pleased to announce that Dr. John Nauright has accepted appointment as Dean of the Stephen Poorman College of Business, Information Systems, and Human Services. Dr. Nauright brings a wealth of academic and international experience that will carry the College forward, building on Stephen Neum’s excellent work as Founding Dean. He will join the leadership team on June 17, 2019.

Diversity, Inclusion, Civility, and Freedom of Speech: These continue to be contested topics on University campuses across the nation, and Lock Haven University is no exception. In an effort to promote and educate our community on these important values and freedoms, a group of faculty worked over the academic year to present to the Provost and President a proposal for an Institute to study and promote freedom of speech. The proposal is under review and will be returned to the working group for revisions; we anticipate launching the Institute at the beginning of the fall semester in conjunction with Convocation, where Daniel Buccino, Director of the Johns Hopkins Civility Initiative, will speak and conduct a workshop for faculty.

Mr. Nigel Farage, a British politician, political analyst, and leader of the Brexit Party, delivered a lecture at the University on April 26, sponsored by the Young Americans for Liberty (YAL) student club.

Ms. Kathleen Gillespie ('86), Chief Executive Officer of the Clearfield County Area Agency on Aging, delivered the Willis Lecture on April 23. She is spearheading Village of Hope, an innovative approach to eldercare for people with Alzheimer’s disease and other forms of dementia. She will be meeting with faculty from several departments early in May to explore ways the University can collaborate in this innovative project.

The H.O.P.E. Center annual Take Back the Night event was held at the Poorman Amphitheater on April 24, where sexual assault survivors and friends of sexual assault victims had ‘planted’ teal-colored pinwheels in the grass to promote awareness of sexual assault.

Sunday, April 28, the University recognized the academic and athletic achievements of our students at the Gerald R. Robinson Academic Awards and Scholarships ceremony.

Celebration of Scholarship took place on April 27. Hundreds of students and student-faculty teams presented research and creative production, showcasing the academic excellence for which the University has been and continues to be known.

On March 29, a crowd gathered to enjoy the Margery Krevsky Dosey celebration of the arts and to recognize the achievements of Danielle Sander, 2018-19 recipient of Margery’s generous scholarship.

4. Athletics

Strategic Planning: Jill Willson, a consultant with Double L consulting, conducted a review of the Athletic Department structure, funding, staffing, and procedures, in preparation for a department strategic planning exercise. She submitted her report and recommendations to the Department and the President at the end of April. Dr. Gioglio will lead coaches and staff to develop a strategic vision and plan to carry the program forward.

Athlete Student-Athlete Success:

Wrestling was named a Division 1 top 30 Scholar Team; Chance Marsteller (also an All-American athlete), DJ Fehlman, and Alex Klucker were recognized with Scholar All-American Honors. The program boasts two All-Americans and a ranking of 18th in the nation coming out of the D1 National Championships in Pittsburgh in March.

The University is adding women’s wrestling to its portfolio of intercollegiate varsity athletics. Women’s Wrestling is an emerging sport and is sponsored and governed by the Women’s Collegiate Wrestling Association. An internal search for a part-time women’s wrestling Head Coach, who will also serve as a part-time Assistant Coach for men’s wrestling, has been posted.

Track & Field is having an amazing outdoor season, on both the men’s and women’s side: We’ve set several school records, hit a number of NCAA provisional championship qualifying marks and a large number of student-athletes have recorded PSAC championship individual qualifying marks (hard to tell hard numbers because we are in action this week and one more regular season meet to go).

Lacrosse goalkeeper Lauren Girardi finished the season with a 209 saves, a single-season school record.

Softball senior pitcher Bekah Slattery recently surpassed the 700 career strikeout mark. She is clearly No. 2 all-time in career strikeouts and among the top-10 all-time in the entire PSAC. She was recently nominated for a major academic award (voting had not occurred at the time of writing).

Baseball pitcher Scott Leitholf was recently named the Atlantic Region Pitcher of the Week for Division II by the National Collegiate Baseball Writers’ Association.
Division Highlights

The Robinson Learning center feasibility study to prepare for the capital-funded renovation project is nearing completion. A broadly inclusive process was used that involved multiple opportunities for input and feedback from faculty departments and others that will be affected by the project. What is emerging is an exciting new look for the RLC and improvements to other facilities to better support various programs. Key elements include:

- Utilizing the two vacant floors of Ulmer South (3rd and 4th) to temporarily house academic departments that will be displaced during the 18 to 24 month RLC renovation project. The space would be configured for flexible classroom, collaboration, and office use.
- Also utilizing part of the second floor of Ulmer South for a permanent home for the Communications department. The current TV and radio station operations would be relocated to a new broadcast center located in a repurposed planetarium building.
- Relocating the ROTC and PSAC offices to space in either Sloan or East Campus to facilitate the Communications department relocation.
- Relocating most of the IT staff to space in Stevenson Library, to make IT services more accessible, particularly to students. The data center would remain in the RLC.
- Making various improvements in the renovated RLC, including a more open and inviting building entry, more glass in the façade to allow natural light into the bidding, a two story Hall of Flags with access from both the first and second floors, and modernized and flexible classroom space with nearby collaboration spaces.

We are now entering the phase where detailed cost estimates will be prepared and reviewed to determine if the design concepts can be achieved within available budget.

A second major renovation project is the East Campus Gymnasium, a $4 million project that will be funded by grants under the Commonwealths’ Redevelopment Assistance Capital Project program and matching funds from the LHU Foundation. The proposal for the second tranche of grant funding has been submitted and is under review by the Office of the Budget, through third party consultants. If all goes well, this project will be put out to bid late this rear and work will commence in May 2020.

Small Business Development Center
Director of the Small Business Development Center, Tim Keohane

• In March, Lock Haven University via the SBDC released an RFP to hire a consultant/firm to conduct an incubator feasibility Study, to be located in Lock Haven. A steering committee made up of LHU staff, students and partner economic development organization representatives has been formed to select the consultant and review the final report from the feasibility study and make recommendations to the University regarding the next steps.

• The Lock Haven University SBDC submitted a proposal to the USDA at the end of March to request grant funding through the Rural Business Development Grant program. If funding is approved, the SBDC proposes to develop a new initiative for a Rural Technology, Innovation and Cyber Resiliency consulting and training programs. The programming developed would be shared as a best practice with other Pennsylvania SBDCs providing technical assistance to small businesses located in other rural communities throughout the North Central Pennsylvania region and beyond. The proposed new programs would provide technical consulting assistance and training services to small and emerging businesses located within Clinton and Lycoming Counties, specifically in the cities of Lock Haven and Williamsport, and surrounding communities, in order to promote growth, economic sustainability, operational continuity and cyber resiliency, and increased use of technology, innovation and e-Connectivity for Pennsylvania business owners and entrepreneurs. The targeted business enterprise sector would include businesses in retail, service, recreational tourism and nature based place making, outdoor recreation products and services, artisans and other small manufacturers/makers, and agribusinesses that are focused on supporting the delivery of food and beverages, hospitality services, apparel and footwear and agricultural amenities to their consumers.

• The SBDC director worked with faculty members from LHU’s Poorman College of Business in making application to the Center for Rural Pennsylvania’s Research Grant Program. The planned activities contained in the letter of intent will provide much needed research and a cost benefit analysis of the use of public funding for trail and river town projects to stimulate private sector investments and promote community viability, specifically located within the Susquehanna Greenway Corridor. The focus of the Lock Haven University faculty proposal is to provide documentation of actual business impacts for local businesses along trail corridors, documentation of changes in real estate values of properties along trail corridors, and analysis of the economic value of other related planning initiatives that lead to an increase in the region’s health, wellness and overall quality of life.

• The Lock Haven SBDC participated in the 3rd Annual national SBDC Day held on March 20, 2019, which was coordinated by the Association of Small Business Development Centers and consisted primarily of a social media promotion of the SBDCs nationwide. In addition, the Center is also gearing up for National Small Business Week to be held the week of May 5th-11th.

• The SBDC had a staffing departure on March 29th when senior business consultant, Brenda Holdren, resigned her position with the Center to take a job with another economic development program in the region. No decision on the filling of the vacancy will be made until the Center receives notification of USDA grant request status, which will most likely occur in early June of 2019.

Council of Trustees for the May 10, 2019 Meeting

Enrollment Update

As of April 26, 2019:

New first-time, full-time freshman are tracking about 100 below last year. We are doing everything we can to work on those numbers. RNL tells us that all clients have seen that the normal deadline of May 1 has become less and less important and that we can still impact the fall class. We will continue those efforts. Some good news, summer registration is up about 20% from last summer.

Enrollment Management & Student Affairs

Two successful Accepted Student Days were held in February and March. We added a parent social component that had current faculty, alumni and parents visiting on Friday evening. Excellent evaluations and feedback support the event and it will continue for next academic year.

Summer Orientation dates:

  - All majors except Health Science
- The Stephen Pooman College of Business, Information Systems, and Human Services, Monday, June 24, 2019
- College of Liberal Arts and Education, Wednesday, June 26, 2019
- College of Natural, Behavioral, and Health Sciences, Friday, June 28, 2019

New students are invited to campus for a day of academic, financial, and social activities that will help them transition to college. Programming will be arranged by each college and will include a panel presentation by a LHU alumnus/alumna, current student, and the current professor. Returning this year Gregory Wilson, City Manager of Lock Haven, will be joining each panel. Greg is an alumnus of Lock Haven University and was a Student Oriental Leader for two years while he was a student. This event provides our foundational Title IX education, academic success hints, and financial literacy information. Students that attend summer orientation receive a LHU bookstore coupon for $5.00 off the freshman common reading, I am Malala: The girl Who Stood for Education and Was Shot by the Taliban by Malala Yousafzai, and they will have entry into the LHU parking lottery for a prime (closer to campus) parking spot.

Spring Convocation – Sunday, April 28. Over 300 students were recognized for LHU Foundation scholarships. Students were able to invite parents, friends, and mentors to watch them receive recognition for their academic excellence.
Ruffalo Noel Levitz is continuing our consulting relationship. The enrollment consulting is continuing with the last visit being Monday, April 29 and Tuesday, April 30. While on campus they did a positioning and messaging workshop that will help both admissions and marketing.

The Stop-Out Campaign will launch on June 1, 2019. This is an effort that RNL will contact 4,000 students that left the university and do not currently have degrees to try and get them to return to LHU. We do not have the resources to gather current contact information such as emails and phone numbers. RNL will do the initial contact and then hand-off to LHU to follow up and get students registered.

The financial aid leveraging project is continuing. RNL is scheduled to be here in July to present their initial conclusions based on the data we have provided. The end result of this consulting project will be a model that allows us to predict the impact of tuition discounting.

The Student Auxiliary Services (SAS), Inc. budgeting process is on-going. The SAS budget process is student-driven with a student committee reviewing requests and hearing appeals. The budget supports academic clubs, club/competition sports, cultural clubs, production and performance clubs, programming/residence halls, publication organizations, spiritual/faith based organizations, special interest clubs, and varsity athletics. The budget process is very collaborative in nature allowing clubs to submit appeals of budget denials with additional information. The SAS Board will meet on May 6 to approve final budgets.

Volunteer Leadership Retreat
On March 30, volunteer leaders from the Council of Trustee, LHU Foundation, Alumni Association, and Student Auxiliary Services gathered together for a day of leadership training and information-sharing. The full-day retreat consisted of three parts: 1. an overview of board leadership and governance best practices; 2. a facilitated discussion about LHU’s brand and messaging; and, 3. a discussion about plans for a new fundraising campaign. A key takeaway from the retreat was a commitment from the four boards to meet at least one time per year. Next steps are to conduct a similar brand value exercise with the campus community (fall 2019).
Fundraising

Several high-profile fundraising and stewardship events were conducted. The team is working on restructuring the appeal schedule for next fiscal year.

- All-In Day of Giving, April 5: Nearly $120,000 was raised to support athletics and student retention during this 24-hour day of giving.
